DETAILED ACTION

Claims 75, 80-85, and 87-89 are pending in this Application. Applicant has canceled Claims 1-74, 76-79, and 86 and amended Claims 75 and 80-85. Claims 75 and 80-85 are withdrawn. Claims 87-89 will be examined.

Response to Remarks

Applicant is correct in pointing out the Examiner's mistake in regard to the 35 U.S.C. 102(e) rejection over Kenny, et al. Applicant's amendments overcome the rejection previously put forth under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) (Bright, et al.). The rejections over Kenny, et al. and Bright, et al. are both withdrawn. However, Claims 87-89 are not free of the prior art.

Claim Rejections

the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 87-89 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent Publication No. 2004023974 A1, published February 5, 2004. Specifically, the '974 publication discloses Example 37 at p. 49, which is Applicant's compound "I-12" disclosed in Claim 87. The compounds of the '974 publication may be employed in pharmaceutical compositions [0084], p. 3.

Art Unit: 1626

103(a)

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 87-89 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent Publication No. 2004023974 A1, published February 5, 2004.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.

Determining the scope and contents of the Prior Art

The '974 publication discloses Example 37 at p. 49, a compound alleged to be useful for the treatment of conditions associated with PTPase activity.

Ascertaining the Differences Between the Prior Art and the Claims at Issue

Positional Isomerism:

Applicant's instantly claimed invention, specifically Claim 87, formula I-3 differs from Example 37 of the '974 publication by the position of the methyl ester on the benzoic acid moiety.

Art Unit: 1626

Resolving the Level of Ordinary Skill in the Pertinent Art

The level of ordinary skill in the pharmacological arts is extremely high. Because of the high level of skill and predictability of the pharmacological arts, there is nothing unobvious in substituting the claimed isomer, I-3, for the structurally similar isomer taught by the '974 publication, Example 37 (also, instantly claimed I-12). Structurally similar compounds suggest one another and are expected to behave similarly in similar environments.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendments necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a).

Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
